

ABOUT GOOD WEATHER FORECAST

Three brothers and two friends rockin around the world and spreading hope and perspective for the future.

Light fog hangs over the valley nestled in a small village in the heart of Bavaria, Germany. The first warm rays of the just rising sun slowly pave the way. In the distance, the first tractors make their way to the fields, rattling softly, while here and there a rooster cheerfully greets the morning. A large black van with a trailer, which doesn't fit into the rural idyll at all, also rolls out of the village, packed with musical instruments and five boys, the three brothers, Flo, Jonny, Dave and their two friends Timo and Titos. For the Bavarian villagers, this is a thoroughly familiar picture. Because the band Good Weather Forecast has been around for almost 15 years - and these years had little to do with the leisurely morning scenery just described. The rock band can now look back on over 700 shows on four continents, from Sydney to Helsinki to LA. They played shows with artists like Hillsong Young and Free, Elevation Worship, Lecrae, Toby Mac, Switchfoot, Jesus Culture, Skillet and many more!

Their catchy songs, intelligent lyrics and profound messages, which sound like a mix of Imagine Dragons, One Republic and Blink182, earned them several top 10 mainstream chart positions in Germany, Switzerland, Denmark and Paraguay. They released their last album "Superhumans" with Starwatch, one of the biggest mainstream record labels in Europe, and Sony. Right now Good Weather Forecast is teaming up with the US based Dream Label Group. "When we first started the band," reveals frontman Flo Stielper with a wink, "it was always our dream to win a Dove Award. Who knows, maybe we're getting closer now."

But success isn't really what Good Weather Forecast is all about, having started a high school ministry alongside their music career. The five boys, who are now all fathers, are passionate musicians and passionate Christians. And that's exactly why Good Weather Forecast is still on the road. At mainstream rock festivals, on TV shows and on small club stages, as well as in hundreds of high schools around the world. Their energetic and thoroughly optimistic music is constantly evolving. However, the message of their songs has been the same over all the years. Through their music and live show, they want to inspire people and make a glimpse of God's beauty and love visible to us humans.
